On the problem of synchronism of transformations of the personal representations of other as enemy and friend

The research problem in this article is the interconnections of dynamics of personal representations of Other as Enemy and Friend and the personal crisis of the relations' system. According to the research results, it was ascertained that: The high level of the personal crisis of the relations' system determines the transformation towards emphasizing «emotional support by Friend, betrayal by Enemy». The low level of the personal crisis of the relations' system determines the transformations towards emphasizing «common interests with Friend, aggression of Enemy».

Keywords: transformations, representations, Enemy, Friend.

Reflexive technologies in the educational process as a factor of the development of schoolchildren's introspective abilities

The article examines reflexive technologies as a special group of pedagogical technologies. These reflexive technologies carry out the function of disclosure, "uncrystallization" of the sense in relation to the content which is their bearer, but it is not self-valuable. The technology does not carry the sense, it only allows to create or, on the contrary, to complicate the conditions under which the trainee will be able to disclose one or another sense fragment of the content, to make it singular and to transform it into the further educational activity.

Keywords: reflection, reflexive technologies, sense sphere, sense formation, introspection, introspective abilities.

Features of symbolization as a component of sense formation among senior pupils with the auditory function defects

The article considers the phenomenon of sense formation. In the course of sense formation the relation "subjective experience – objective value", i.e. personal sense, becomes a unit of the content. The author notes that symbolization as the process of mastering (at the level of individual consciousness) of concepts-symbols is an essential component of sense formation. The analysis of studies of functioning of the concept-symbol of the educational process among senior pupils with the auditory function defects is carried out.

Keywords: sense sphere, personal sense, sense formation, symbol, symbolization.
